
The Oaks at Boca Raton Follows Inventory Closeout Success With Three New Models

Boca Raton, FL (May 28, 2009) – With its recent Inventory Closeout Event deemed a huge success by selling all of the 14 luxury homes in inventory, The Oaks at Boca Raton has announced that exciting new models are currently underway. That means that a limited number of completely furnished models at the gated luxury community have just been released for sale.

Currently under construction at one of Boca Raton's most sought-after communities are the Verona and the Balmonte Grande III luxury estate homes. In the planning stage is a new Savona model, as well.

More than 300 families are currently in residence and enjoying The Oaks' resort lifestyle. According to the developers of The Oaks, buyers find the elegant estate homes, a country club lifestyle with no equity fees, and a desirable Boca Raton address to be an exceptional value.

The Oaks' resort lifestyle centers around The Club at The Oaks with its handsome Santa Barbara-style clubhouse and exciting program of social events. Residents enjoy a full service Spa and Fitness Center and a resort-size tropically landscaped and heated pool surrounded by chic cabanas and a casual poolside café. The popular Tennis Center at The Club offers 12 courts, including a stadium court, a red clay court and a hard court, plus a well equipped pro shop and a full schedule of tennis events presided over by a professional staff.

The Oaks at Boca Raton is the imaginative creation of two of South Florida's premier builder/developer firms: Kenco Communities, headed by Kenneth Endelson and Richard Finkelstein, and Albanese-Popkin Development Group, headed by Leonard Albanese and Edward Popkin. They are joined in this superb community by the outstanding building firm of Charlse-Watt Communities, headed by Steven Charlse.
